

Application Form: Indigenous Health Scholarships

Round 2- For courses offered February – June 2010

Closing date for applications: 15 January 2010

Announcements of successful applicants will be made in late January

The scholarship program provides assistance to health professionals working with Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people intending to undertake health professional training with FPQ. The scholarship covers course enrolment costs through the waiver of fees; and is available for theory components, clinical attachments and course materials.

Priority is given to professionals working in Queensland in community controlled or non-government organisations, and all applicants for scholarships must demonstrate support from their employing organisation. Scholarships are offered in two cycles each calendar year.
