People can feel many different ways following sexual abuse or sexual assault.

Counselling can be an opportunity to explore that and to explore new skills that may make a difference to your life.

Counselling is an opportunity for you to talk.

You are welcome to attend for a one-off session to address a particular concern or to attend for a longer period of time.

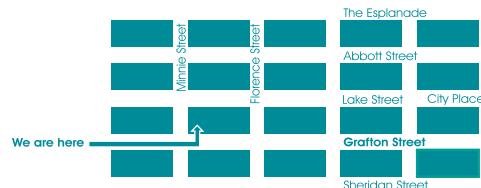

You decide what is right for you and what is discussed in the counselling session.

What you discuss with your counsellor is kept confidential and private.

What is sexual assault?

Sexual assault can refer to any unwanted sexual behaviour that makes a person feel uncomfortable, frightened or threatened.

A sexual act may be considered sexual assault or sexual abuse if:

- you have not agreed to it
- you agreed only because of intimidation or coercion
- you were unable to agree because you were intoxicated (or for any other reason where consent was not possible)
- an adult has sexual contact with a child

If you have experienced sexual assault or sexual abuse at any time in your life you are not to blame.

The Family Planning Queensland (FPQ) Cairns Sexual Assault Service (CSAS) is a free and confidential service.

Services available

- face to face counselling
- telephone counselling
- therapeutic groups
- information and referral
- support during police and legal processes (you do not need to be accessing counselling to access this support)
- information and support for parents/carers, spouses, family, and friends of adults and children who have experienced sexual assault or abuse
- training and resources for other workers who have contact with women and children who have experienced sexual assault or abuse
- community education
- medical care, including pregnancy testing and emergency contraception
- outreach for children and young people who may find it difficult to attend the service

Who do we support?

Cairns Sexual Assault Service offers 24 hour crisis support to all people who experienced sexual assault aged 14 years and older. Ongoing support is provided to:

- those who have experienced recent or childhood sexual assault
- children who have been sexually abused recently or in the past
- non offending family members, carers and friends of victims/survivors

This is a free and confidential service.

You may call and remain anonymous.

The service will also accept reverse charge calls or can call you back.
