

Indigenous Scholarships Program

Scholarship information:

Family Planning Queensland (FPQ) is a leading provider of sexual and reproductive health training and workforce development in Queensland.

FPQ's Indigenous Scholarship Program seeks to address the under-representation of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people in health professions and contribute to workforce development in sexual and reproductive health services. The scholarship program provides assistance to health professionals working with Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people intending to undertake health professional training with FPQ, and covers course costs, including the theory component, clinical attachments and course materials. Priority is given to professionals working in community controlled or non-government organisations, and all applicants for scholarships must demonstrate support from their employing organisation.

Scholarships are offered in two cycles in each calendar year.

Round 1: For courses offered February – June 2010
Closing date for applications: 15 January 2010
Announcements of successful applicants will be made in late January.

Round 2: For courses offered July – December 2010
Closing date for applications: 24 May 2009
Announcements of successful applicants will be made in June.

Scholarship options:

In 2010, FPQ will offer one scholarship place in each health professional course. See below for an outline of courses offered. For specific course dates and information, please visit www.fpq.com.au/courses.stm.

Health professional	Course	Course components
Allied health workers	Introduction to Sexual & Reproductive Health Theory	Distance education
Nurses	Introduction to Sexual and Reproductive Health Theory	Distance education
Doctors	SH&FPA Certificate in Sexual & Reproductive Health	6 days theory 6 clinic sessions
Nurses	Pap Smear Provider Module	3 days theory 2-3 clinic sessions
Nurses	Clinical Aspects of Sexual & Reproductive Health	3 days theory

For more information and requests for scholarship applications:

Family Planning Queensland
PO Box 215
Fortitude Valley QLD 4006

Phone: 07 3250 0249
Email: dearl@fpq.com.au

EXCELLENCE IN EDUCATION AND TRAINING FOR HEALTH PROFESSIONALS

www.fpq.com.au

ABN 61 009 860 164